Alcohol in Relation to the Home.

BY MR. AND MRS. BRAMWELL BOOTH.

(Read by Mrs. Booth at the Twelfth International Congress on Alcoholism, held in London last month)

HE subject of th's paper is "Alcohol in Relation to the HE subject of th's paper is "Alcohol in Relation to the Home." Of Home itself, one general observation may be offered. The Home is not only the seed plot of a nation's continued existence, but it is the spring from which proceeds all that is essential to the true patriolism of a people, to the real power of any community, and to the sustained influence of national life and institutions. The homes of the people constitute the flow of new life, or new influences, both mo.al and intellectual, and of new energy without which the nation upper in the process of these and of new energy, without which the nation must in the process of time v'tably shrink and die.
Anything, therefore, which bears for good or lit upon the Homes and upon the Home-life of a people is of supreme importance to every nation.

A wide experience of the conditions of life in many countries, and a somewhat close acquaintance with the inner facts of social progress among the working and peasant classes over a largo part of the world, has brought an important body of information on this and kindred subjects to hrought an Important body of information on this and another subjects to the Officers of The Salvation Army. This paper is intended to present to the Congress—as briefly as may be—some of the principal conclusions at which we have arrived at to the influence of strong drink upon the life of the people as that life is seen in the'r bomes,

A Wasteful Habit.

1. And first we remark, Alcohol in the Home dissipates and wastes the substance and material resources of the family.

It is scarcely necessary to do more than state this fact to secure universal assent. Wherever it appears in the Homes of the people, alcoholtends inevitably to waste. It consumes, without giving any adequate return, what should be expended in necessaries, especially for the children. the aged, and the sick. It is astonishing to what an extent it establishes itself as a supposed necessity and then drives out what is all-important for the building up of vigorous physique and the preservation of health of scarcity and unemployment the children's milk is cut off long hefore the parents' beer and spirits. The wage-earner—and even the young mother—will, to their great detriment, forgo important food much more willingly than the pot on of alcoholic drink to which they are ac-

The use of strong drink is also, we find, a principal fee to thrift of every kind. The small margin of gain over necessary expenditure which might be stored for the future, goes—even where there is no sign of excess—la this form of indulgence, and when, presently, special needs arise, there is no reserve to fall back upon. It has been wasted. Even when early training has induced habits of thrift, and something has been accumulated by heads of families in the first years of housekeeping, the alcohol custom being once established, invades these slight reserves, and that often on slight occasion, with rulnous consequences. They are quickly

Drink Destructive of Home Life.

2. Alcohol dissolves the vigour and spirit which make and keep the Home a living factor,

Nothing is much more valuable in the life of a people than the possession by each individual of some centre of interest and affection to which all that is best in character clings. Just us the homeless man is always a danger to society, so the mun with strong attachments—first to the Home of his childhood, and then to the Home of which he blusely is the head-will always he a more useful, more law-fiblding, and in every way more described citizen than the man without those interests.

Hut nothing so quickly attacks at that is most attractive in Home-life as the use of, and desire for, strong de'nk. They engender sofishness; they lead to association totally allen and often antagonistic to Home influence. They lead to a futal lack of interest in the Home on the part both of men and women, and induce carelessness in its management, and in a very large proportion of cases, even where at animate are not as yet used to great excess, they strike at the confidence between parrous and children, which is one of the fluest qualities and most heautiful characteritsies of true Home-life.

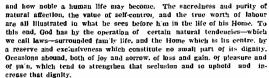

Once these evils have entered any Home, there is a weakening, soon to produce a total loss, of respect in the children, or genuine regard in the parents. Tens of thousands of young people, because of this curse, enter upon the serious affairs of life with all real affection for Home shattered, and with all high hieals as to the Homes they are themselves to bullif up destroyed

3. Alcohol humbles and only too often destroys the natural dignity and prestige of Home and of family 11fc.

One of the highest practical as well us ethical advantages of a good Home to all, but particularly to the foung people who live there, is to awitken and cultivate respect and e-teem for human life and character. It is there that the future citizen learns how great a thing a kuman boul is,

In its influence upon the formation of character this bas place, helping to develop resource, self-control, willingness to accept respons blilty, and sympathy and affection towards all.

But alas! bow erne'ly opposed to all this is aleoholism! agony have we not all of us witnessed the gradual dispersal of that respect, final destruction of that dignity, under the influences of this scourge The wife and mother, who at first looked up in all things to the husband. is gradually compelled to look down upon him. The husband and father whose esteem was at first of the highest for the wife, is compelled at last to think of her only as the servant or s'ave of another master. The eblidren grow up to see only too plainly how the best and purest side of conderen grow up to see only (so planty how the best and purest side of their parents' character is marred and stained by the influences of this strange evil power, until presently all respect, either for their word or their personalities 's gone. Who can estimate the evil consequences of this loss of prestige? Who can say how far it is responsible for the growth of disorderliness, insubordination, anarchism, and kindred evils

We verily believe that many a revolutionary spirit many a reckless orlin al, many a forsaken woman, took the first steps on the way to ruin under the influence of a Home in which strong drink had already undermined all that moral dignity and natural prestige which should have been a strong bulwark against those very evils.

Injurious to the Children.

4. Alcohol tends to weaken and ultimately overthrow the authority of the family, to the great injury of the children. Discipline is a part of life. Without it, the world would be a chaos of disorder, if not a Hell of despair. The discipline which the world gives is based on the operation of unchanging law. If we are to produce men and women was will work in harmony with that law, and who will obtain by auch work results leading to their own peace and the wellbeing of others. they must be trained in the acceptance, and, as far as may be, in the appreciation, of the discipline adapted to their early years. The father, the mother, are to command their children before God; the simule rules of Home are to represent the parents' mind, and the penalties attached to their neglect, the measure of the parents' condemnation for their all this is to exait authority and to train in its acceptance, so that by and by the coung citizens may descend into the world's arena nossessed by the steady purpose of resolute men, but ready, while seeking freedom for themselves, to observe the laws of equal freedom for others.

But how can such training be possible if the father—or, more dread-ful still, the mother—is seen to be a self-nutigent habitue of the dramshop, or, worse still, is known to be quietly drinking the poison on the sly? The young people instinctively lose their natural respect for such a father. His word ceases to be anything to them. His law loses in claims upon them. His punishments are transformed into brutal injustices Little by little, and more and more, that righteons fear which was the beginning of wisdom in them, is destroyed, and in their tiny sphere they are translated into neglectors and despisers of all authority, The father, who ought to have been the emblem of all lawful power to them the representative of God Himseli—is become as but a chip of wood on the waters of a sensual life. Perhaps in nothing is the evil effect of the use of intextents fraught with more cravity for the future than in this. Here is the degradation and destruction at its very source, of that lawful and pararal authority without the recognition of which the human Home-would be little better than a habitation of wild beasts,

Self-Indulgence and Impurity.

5. Alcohol opens the door of the Home to the most vicious forms of Alcohol opens the door of the Home to the most vicious forms of self-indulgence and impurity.

"Leave the door open" says the old odego, "and the dexi wid rome in." Who can doubt that it is so here? The Home transfer has humble—was designed to be the sheftered harbour of humble—in matter how humble for one woman by one man, and the field in which appear is estimated to reason and controlled by affection. Do only let schooled exter there, and the door is, ever after, onen for all the hopersons, the antipodes of restraint, of chastity, and of purity.

Strong drink incites appealer chang-os the carement have of eatily into heat, which being dealed becomes hat a and carries men away into licence and vice. It is always the faithful ally of the baser nature. It is ever the friend of the beast in man.

Impurity in one form or another is, porhaps, the greatest danger of the new century facing the Western nations. On every hand, its presence and nower confront us-young and old-rich and poor alike. Who can doubt-certainly we of The Salvation Army cannot-that intoxicating liquors open the door of the Home-aye. the very Nursery-to this for and soul-destroying flend; and when once be is admitted stand firmly by him an auxilary and confederate the work of moral destruction which ever accompanies his presence?

6. Alcoholism is the implacable ene of all that belongs to the ethical advance of the community,

Nowhere is there such an opening for the moral and spiritual cultivation of the people as in the Home. There, in the highest degree, the influences of unselfish love and the example of disinterested devotion are potent factors in the training and encouragement of all that is good in man. It is there that the leaven of Jesus Christ's teaching will most readily enter the human soul, leading it to covet lowliness, to be patient in injustices, and to welcome even dishonour for truth's No after influences can achieve the youth of our peoples what can be accomplished at the Home. It seems to us who find in all the wise arrangements of human life evidences of a Divine solicitude, that tamily life was really designed for the very purpose of rooting the young trees planted there in all that is true and honourable and brave and pure. That it is by Divine appointment intended to be the grent school of morals—that there should meet the tenderest influences of earthly affection and the first revelation of the love of God, both, alike, inspiring to a life of labour for others.

Alcohol is the foe of all those sacred things. Its use weakens the ability to discern between that which is evil and that which is good. It emholder men to neglect God. It sets up false standards of duty and ambition, standards, that is, which are warped and dwarfed by the claims of indulgence. Alcohol confuses conscience until ca'ls right wrong and wrong right. It exalts present advantage and dulls the nower of noble ambition. In short, alcobol is the bandmaid of the life of sense, of fleshly gratification, of pasof self-reject, of self-denial, and of sacrifice.

Once the drink habit is entrenched in the Horhe, all those baneful autug-onisms manifest themselves in a housand ways. The children feel them; the grown youths and maidens suffer from thom; the visitors and friends, the servants and attendants if such there be-do not escape their influences, and the heads of the family receive back a further dreadful impetus on the way to moral and spirit-ual atrophy and death. The Home so destaded. instead of a nursery of moral beauty and of spiritual life, becomes l'ttle more than a charnel-house of dead or dying souls.

For the reasons horo briefly re-ferred to, we of The Salvation Army say that strong drink ought to be banished from the Home, from the Church-which is the earthly home of family of Christ-and from the use of all civilized peoples. And on these grounds, we have, in God's name, already and for ever banished the accursed thing from our berdets,

How He Beiriended a Young German Mother who was Travelling with a Fretful Baby.

the Alsle He Paced. Then Up and Down

Was on the West hound train of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, somewhere between Winnise Jaw, that a strong lusty baby first set up a series of infantine howls and crying. The travellers were ar-roused, testy and frowning, for it was far into the night "I'd give a dollar to have my way with that youngster for about ten minutes," growled a man with drink- sodden features.

A young woman, with no marks of domestic concern, remarked petulantly, "I don't see why people can't travel on a tra'n without baving a herd of young ones with them."
Indeed, the whole car, with one ex-cention, had put on an air of annovance and discomfort. The one exception-a Salvation Army Adjutantwho had been quietly reading, left h's seat and went to the back of the car. He had children of his own, living and dead, and had seen something of the "lighty and shadows" of life. His face was aglow with the warmth of h's heart. What he saw at the back of the car touched him.

In a corner, a young German mother, tired out, stood with a lusty baby in her arms, patting, coaxing, and trying to pacify him. A little girl lay sleeping on the cushioned seat near There was a large wicker basket, a carpet bag, and a large roll with a shawl strap. Poor mother, she was so pale and weary. Yet not concerned so much for herself, as for the annoyance of the passengers, The Army Officer gently spoke to ane Army Officer gently spoke to her. "The little fellow is nervous and fighting sleep," he sald, "end hardly knows what is the matter with him. Let me take him for a little while."

Sulting the action to the words, he took the child almost forcibly out of her arms. She clinging the while and saying: "Oh, sir, heem cry mooch cef you taka heem"

"I guess not." said the Officer with a smile. "He can't more than cry anyway, and he's doing that now."

Then up and down the ais'e be paced, saying to the child in a low, scothing voice, "Now, I've got you, little fellow, and we're going to let mamma rest, and you are going to sleen right away. Don't you see how all the folks are mad at you?" Each time he came back to where the mother sat, she rose to take the child, and each time he motioned her to sit down. His verture changed the temper of the whole car, and passengers g'anced at him and graned and jested.

Sald the jolly drymmer, "You've there before. I guess, old fellow. Got a round dozen of your own?" "Good thing to keep your hand practice," said a motherly onking roots thing to keep your hand in practice," said a motherly-tooking woman, to her nearest friend, "That Salvation man has some feeling for a woman, anyway He's the sort that would make a wife happy, I know." Meanwhile the little chap had ceased his crying and sunk into a sound skeep Once more signaling the mother not to disturb herself, the Officer slipped into a seat just across from her with the I title fellow cuddled on his knee. His friendly manner had won her confidence and while the train sped on, she told him the cause of her journey. A few years before, her husband, Fritz, after whom the little one was named, had come to Cape Breton from Germang. She was hig girl sweetheart, left bebind to wait till the time when he could send for her. Two years sped by, and then she bade farewell to her people to become a bride away over the sea. The voyage was without misbap. The meeting and marriage a greet joy, and all went well, until through sickness. The voyage was without mishap. The meeting and marriage a great joy, and all went well, until through sickness, her husband lost his employment. Trustling to better their circumstances, they deoded. like many more, to go West. She remained in Cape Breton with the children, keeping a couple of humble boarders, while he went ahead to find work, and a place in which to live. ## ADJUTANT AND MRS. McELHENEY'S. --FAREWELL

How Riverdale Wished Them God

After a decidedly successful stay is Riverdale, Adjutant and Mrs. McElbency, farewelled on Sunday, August 15th, for Winnipeg. The news that this event was to take place leaked out long before the Sunday, and up to the Monday night, when they gave a final exhortation, and were present at a banquet arranged as a parting service, expressions of regret, and hearty "God speeds" flowed in from all quarters of the great Queen City, temperance Ministers Army friends, comrades of early day warfare, and Salvat'onists of all ranks, rejuctantly shook hands with two leaders who have won their way the hearts of the people as only few Officers have,

The great Hall was packed out on Sunday dght. The Rev. Mr. Fallis spoke ords of appreciation of the Adjutant's unceasing toll in the East End, not only as a Salvationiat, but a public citizen. Staff-Captain and Mrs. White assisted throughout the two meetings. The Juniors of the Directory Class sang a farewell song; the Band and Sonvaters also rendered an-

Beginnings of Backsliding.

By the Chief of the Staff.

T is the heginnings which are so important, so are so important, so deadly, and yet often so small. That is one of the points on which the deadly, and yet often so small. That is one of diseases of the soul are like those of the hody. The doctors tell us that a the hody. of infected matter, no larger that the smallest grain of flour that can be seen with the human eye, is enough to polson a man's whole frame to fill him with untold suffering, and finally to kill him. So the most trifling disohed ence, the smallest up ellef, the least of hidden sins, the little uncleanness which policity can sec. is enough to destroy alike spiritual health and life

How did you become a backslider? How was lt? You were unkindly dealr with? Someone spoke evil of you? You lost your faith in your Officer? You saw something wrong in someone else, and that shook you? You were tempted sore? Very well, I can onite understand. I am afraid that many good people will have much to answer for, in that they have thought'essly, way, crused weak and the lame to stumble in the But God will have to settle all that. He will do what is right.

Some Hidden Wrong.

But was there not something that harmoned before these difficulties overtook you? Some time ago a poor backsilder in great distress wrote to me, and afterward came to see me She had once been a useful Salvationist; so happy, so much beloved. But now all was changed. on everything, both in soul and circumstances Bitter sofrow, like a dreadful vampire, seemed to be drawing out her very file-blood, and in angush and grief she turned to me. I did all I could to help her back to light and laith, and then I asked h "How did you first go back-how did it begin?"

'It began like this," she replied. "I had a dear friend, also a Salvationist, We promised God that we would suchd one hour alone with Him every day in prayer and communion. For years I kept it up and lived in vie tory. At last my work increased, and day [ said to myself. I will reduce that hour to half an hour, and have a little more rest for my body.' From that day I got cooler in my soul. I did not love sinners so much. I lost There was no change wardly, but , oh. I was weak! weak! weak! And then, when such and such a thing happened, I gave way. left my post; and now I have everything. It all began with neglecting prayer."

So, you see neither the cruel treatment she received, nor the terrible affliction God-allowed to come upon her, was the real beginning of her backslid ng-it was that going back from prayer. Was it so with you? And have you been blaming some-thing that happened after, when you ought to blaine yourself?

Disobedience Did It?

Several years ago someone asked me to speak to a young man in a prayer-meeting. He was looking very ill, and the marks of sin were dainty visible on his face. The moment I offered him my hand, he began to telt how had and low he was, and how far from God. Then he went on to b'ame some Sa'vationists for his backsliding, saying he had been slaudered and wronged, that he would never foreive, and that if his soul was lost was not his fault. It made me leel broken-bearted and I could not speak to bim for a few minutes. Then stier a little silence, I said to him, "Well, does God speak to you now?

No," he said, "the lest time God snoke to me was when He called me become an Officer, and I would not g've up my home"

"Ah" I sald, "and was that before all this wrong came upon you? Yes," came the answer

And don't you see." I said, "that it was that disobedience which was the beginning of your backsliding? The flery tra' found you weak, and the devil overthrew you."

And then the poor fellow broke down and told me how he had lost everything, because of that refusal to obey Got's cal!. All his money, and his friends, and his character for steadiness, and, be feared his health. were gone. It was a sad time I had

"Well" I said, "come back to God to-night-do it now.

No," he said; "I can't do it unless my wife will."

And so though he saw it was all his fan't, he would not act w'thout his wife and I had to leave him.

His Dying Confesion,

Another backslider who once came to see me, jaid before me a long list of complaints against some of his urades, and then began to accuse God of treating him emethy on acount of the death of his He was full of reli-listification, and I prayed with him, and he promised to come to hear me speak the following day. is there anything of this cort in your case? Are you blaming The Army or some countaile, who has as you think, wronged you when in reality there is something borribly wrong in your own life, or habits, or work, or home, which is the true reason of God's departure from your If it is so, I beseech you confees it. ## SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

The prevailing complexion at Head--most of the Hendquarters' Staff having returned from their brief vacation which affords such a respite from the hot offices of a crowded city.
This means that the holiday season generally is drawing to a close, and those who have vacated the towns will soon be returning to their home: and settling down for the fall and winter. Within a day or two, the Commissioner and Mrs. Coombs will at Héadquarters and thus, the way will be clear for the early work of the fall efforts. May God grant us a might'y outpouring of bleesing.

Which Will He Choose?

Many of our readers are, perhaps, in this position. The lusts of the world are put behind. But they halt between Worldly Morality, and Prosperity, and the Cross of Christ—Forgetting that those who suffer with Christ shall reign with Him. They also lose sight of the truth contained in this text, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Shortly afterwards occurred an in-client which illustrates again The General's great kindliness of heart. Adjutant Marshall, an Officer of many vears' service was born in an obttle Norfolk village, but, leaving the so'i, he went into a town, where he was converted, and entered the Work. His old father and mother utili live in the cottage on the green. All they knew about the great Organisation to which their son belougs, is what they see of him when he is on furlough and conducts open-air meet-

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR CAPTAIN L. HORWOOD.

Five Seekers at the Cross.

Victoria, B. C .- On Sunday night. the Citadel was well filled for the memorial service. The Bible reading was taken by Staff-Captain Hayes, from Job xiv., and the so'emn words brought before all who listened, the realities of time and eternity,

After the Songster Brigade had ing, "Be in time," Mrs. McGregor, the Recruiting-Sergeant, who spent many years in the East as an Officer, the beautiful record that Captuln Horwood and her sister, the Ensign had left wherever they had been stationed.

The Band played, as a selection, the beautiful song that became so familiar at the time of Mrs. Booth's

"We shall walk through the Valley of Death, We shall walk through the Valley in peace; For Jesus Himself shall be our Leader we walk through the Valley in neace." And then the Band-Sergeant of Vanconver No. I. Cords, was called on, This comrade, who was in Victoria for a short visit, had known the Captain while stationed with her sister at No. II. Corps, and spoke of her happy, cheery disposition, and the whole-hearted devotion which she had always put into her work, Captain Knudson sang, "Tell me the story of Jesus," the so'o that 'aptain Horwood had sung on a Sunday night less than a year ago, when she and her sister assisted in the meeting.

Another comrade, Sister Mrs. Wilson, who had fought as a Soldier in Rosslaud, when members were few and the work hard unit discouraging. told of the brave Captain and her elster standing almost alone night after night, in the open-nir, and carrying out her other daties with always a smile on her face and a word of theer for all, in spite of difficulties, Even the little children were attracted to hor and followed her about.

Staff-Captain Hayes spoke from the words taken from the Bible, reading. "But man dieth, and wasteth away: yea, man giveth up the ghost, and where is he?" Amid a deep hush that fell on the congregation, the Staff-Captain related the details of the accident that caused her death, and what was known of the few days of suffering before she was taken into the presence of the Saviour, Hard, indeed, must have been the beart that was not touched, if such were nessible. The Staff-Cantain then called for volunteers to take up the cross, and as far as possible fill the vacant place. It was a hard struggle fer many, to whom God had pointed out the way wherein they should wa'k, and for a little while it seemed as though no one would yield. but before closing the meeting, three sisters and two brothers were kneeling at the positest form for salva-or consecration. While praying for these, our Chinese Bo'dier, "Charley," was praying with a countryman of his in a rner, and he, too, testified with the others that God had changed his heart. On Monday night four more came out for salvation. -A. E. T.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO COLONEL HICKS.

Another Reminder that in the Midst of Life We are in Death.

A very impressive memorial meetwas recently held at New York, for the late Lieut Colonel Hicks, who, as our readers may remember, passed away la sleep at Harrisburg. Colonel. McIntyre, who led the meeting, spoke briefly concerning the influence which the life and character of the late Colonel had had upon him, declaring than no one probably had been a greater to him.

It cannot be said that this was in any sense a meeting for lamentation, for, as Color .; McIntyre affirmed, we could not lungine a meeting of sad co'emulty and tears where Colonel Hicks was concerned, his spirit was so constantly happy and optimistic; vet there were tears, and many of them, and there were scores of hearts present, who, feeling the loss, should have welcomed the chance to ease themselves in tears. On the other hand, everyone was so certainly confident that our late comrade was with his Lord that they could not but re-joice solemnly in his glorified condition.

The appeal to earnest hearts to seek God then and there, resulted in the coming of five to the mercy seat.

The Colonel, after the lapse of a counte of weeks, has gone to join his time assistant, Major Fred Rogers. in the Betler World. It is an interesting co'ncidence that a short time be-fore the death of Major Rogers, Lieut Colonel Hicks, in writing the sick Officer, tried to inspire him with hope, although counselling him to fall in line with God's will, should lie deem it necessary to call him to his

Every now and again the hatred of the high caste people of the Brahmin country of Travan-core breaks out against low caste Officers.

Several high caste men recently fell upon, and severely beat one of our Pulayar, or low easte Officers, tearing his red jacket off him. The Fresh Air Camp Campa'gn is now in full swing in the U. S. A. Twelve hundred poor mothers and children were recent'y taken by Col-onel Holtz to Burlington, Island Park. Three hundred were treated in a sirethar manner in Mobile, Ala; two hundred at Macon, Ga., a large number at Greenville. S. C., and five hundred respectively at Trenton. N. J., and Wilmington, Del.

The Commander had arranged to Comm'ssion seventy Cadets last week in the Memorial Hall, New York. A Special feature of the meeting was to be a Public Demonstration in "First Aid," both lads and lassies taking part in what bids fair to be an occasion of very special interest.

It is of interest to note that a sulendid bui'ding is being erected for the use of the Corps close to the worldiamous Niagara Falls. The structure is some four storers high, and is admirably suited for Salvation Army

Adjutant Wilkins, of the Northern Pacific Province, has had some grue-some experiences of late. While visiting a man in the condemned cell who is to be hanged in a few days, he viewed the remains of a convict who was shot by a prison guard while in mortal combat with a fellow prisoner, the instruments used being prison shears used by employees in the jute mill. Both disputams were shot, this one fatally.

The Salvation Army is deeply indebted to that genuine philanthropist. Miss Helen Gould, for the use of the spacious playground attacher to her estate at Lyndhurst, near Tarrytown - on - the -Hudson, on Tuesday, Aug. 10th. This makes it possib'e for The Army to take a party of five hundred poor children from New York City and vicinity for a day's outing of the most pleasant and in-vigorating description.

Miss Gould will pay all involved by train and the expenses troley, leaving The Army the bill for lunches, games and incidentals. The Seigel-Cooper Company will put up the lunches in boxes. Each Corps in the Metropolitan area will contribute its quota of beneficiaries specially selected. The special train leaves the New York Central depot at 9 a. m. sharp.

Colonel Margetts, patriarch of the Juniors, will see that the redoubtable five hundred have the best of good times. Who more capable for purpose?

Commissioner Rees Beartily Welcomed by the Training Staff.

In a gathering that was no less delightful because informal in character. Cormissioner Rees was recently given an appreciative welcome by the Staff of the International Training College. The object of the occasion was happily defined by Commissioner Howard, who presided as the re-estab-lishing of the connection between the past and the present.

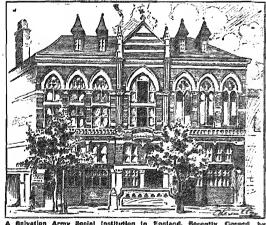

Having referred to the Commission er's previous eight and a bail years at Clapton, the Foreign Secretary spoke highly of what he had done for the Training Homes in Sweden, improving them, and bringing them into with the Clapten Instittion.

As Vice-Principal, Colonel Dean, on behalf of all sections of the Training Staff, assured Commissioner Rees of their loyal support.

With deep feeling the Commissioner replied, informing the gathering that his five years' absence from the Training cruire had not lessened in the slightest degree his interest in the work it represented.

As The General and the Chief had so often said, he believed The Army was only on the threshold of what was precible in the way of re-creation of character and the development of the gills and graces of senetified young men and women.

Burke and Wills, perished. Winton is a post rown situated on the north side of the Western River, but is dependent almost wholly for its water supply upon an artesian bore. This was sunk to a depth of 4,019 feet, and yields about 559,000 gallons of water a day, while a reliculation scheme has been successfully established, sunfying dams and tanks along the main stock routes to the large stations that he out back. The water from this bore

Comes Out of Bolling Heat,

Comes Out of Bolling Heat, and in support of this statement, Captain Cross tells the following incident: "On one occasion, Major Gist. Ensign McLean, Lleutemant Setterfield and myself paid a visit to this bore, taking with us a supply of pataness and ten. Within twenty feet of the bore is a small running stream of clear, cold water. We fished in this stream and caught some small yellow-bellies, which, with the potatoes, we cooked with the bore water, and brewed our tea with the same, onloying a good meal." Rain at Wanton is only a casual visitor, and if joed authorities can be believed, children have grown up there to the ages of ten and twelve without having seen a shower, Maybe they were born blind or perhaps the tropical storms which now and again are experienced can hardly be termed showers." Prior to the sluking of the boro the township suffered hadly at times from drough and dearth of water is one of the terrors that fure to be faced all over that western country. Now we will let Captain Cross toll his story:—

Story after I came to Winton, I diocided to try a trin outbuck, in the interests of Self-Denilat. It was the summer of 190-7, and the shearing season being on, I reckoned on a groutable trip and good spiritual opportunities. Consulting a map, the Journey did not present any difficulties, as so between Winton and Boulin authout 250 miles distant; which is therefore to make my objective several towns, as I took them to be, and stations were marked. For this reason, and being macquainted with the country, I took nothing with me, not even a waterbas. I just jumped on may blke and started off. I intended making my first camp Coli aground, which the chart showed me was about worly miles from Winton. I are ved there to find the town consisted of I A Solitary Post,

I pushed on, and got as far as Ethersley, as shearing station. Here I was we'l received, and, after a meeting with the shearers, turned in, steening on the extemporised, hed of wool letter, extending the state of the shearers, turned in journey, and found trivelling rather heavy, as I had to pedat my machine through shout two lackes of black gust all the way till I came to a range of high hills called the Table Top Mountains. The formation of these is very singular Arter sloping upward half way, the sides rise perpendicularly, and at the top is found a flat table land. They are composed of a sort of baked clay and when one picks in poine of this it is found to consist of particles the same slungs as the fills themselves. Schulde opal is found here, but having no fire, is valueless commercially. I came across some slight indications of gold country about here, although it is generally sail opal and gold never go together. I camped that hight on the mountains, without having been able to get any water. It had been hot and thirsty travelling during the day, but was cold enough now, so I lit a fire on either side and broke down some boughs off a coolembrake to serve for a bed. The want of water made me restless; otherwise I was not unconfortable. I reached Woodstock Station next day, and found abundance of water, not only to drink, but for a good wash, whitel I wanted hadly. Here I saw called the Table Top Mountains. The

My First Large Snake

My First Large Snake in its natural state. It was discovered in a wood heap, and measured fourteen feet, nine inches in length—reaper snake. One of the station hands shot it. I went on that night, and camped out again, travelling on in the morning until I reached the Lamindood station. It was on this station that the two young Hollings worths, from St. Kilda, perished. They had started out to go to Kynana on the'r bleycles, and determined to take a short cut, against the advice of the number. Mr. Hines. As they did not arrive at Kynana as expected, search was made for them. The body of one was noted for them. The body of one was found, and the two machines, but the body of the other was never traced. The machines were still on the station, and I used part of one to repair my own, which had already begain to give me trouble. I stayed at Limbuilded over the Sandray, and conducted services in the drawing-room.

"Reverends" are Scarce out-back and the meeting generally appreciated. All the hands and even the place boys meatered for divine worship. At this and all the stations, generous help was riven to the Self-bend; Fund. On the Monday I got as fer as the mall change, some sixty miles on the divert track for Boulia, and it was on this stage i experienced my first real troubles from thirst. Foolishly, although I had been cant ored not to, I scarched up and down one or two billabongs for water. If they tell one at a station, Tent's to looking for water in suck-and-such a creek, you may be sure 't is use-less. They know. And through neslecting their well-meant warnings is gow men perish. I at last came to

What a wonderful sight that will be!

Tunes-Mary, 48; Nat'vity, B.B. 51. Oh. for a thousand tongues to My great Redeemer's praise; The glorles of my God and King, The triumphs of His grace!

Jesus! the name that charms our fears,

That bids our sorrows cease;
Ils music in the sinner's ears;
'Tis life, and health, and peace.

He brenks the power of cancelled s'n, He sets the prisoner free; His blood can make the vilest clean, His blood availed for me.

Salvation.

Tune-For you I am praying, B.B. 227,

We have a message A message from Jesus, And time is now hastening, Its moments are few He's seeking poor sinners.

Make haste to receive H'm,
The Mactor is come
And He calleth for you.

Chorne.

For you He is calling, Yes, Jesus is calling, Is calling for you

We have a message.

A message from Jesus,
A message of hope
To the poor, weary heart;
The love of my Saviour,
There's nothing so precious;
Will never depart.
